NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Inkstand Bottle

We are making smokeless powder
And big bombs to throw a mile,
That will blow the foe to chowder
In the true dynamic style.

We've a whirling gun; you start it,
And the myriad bullets fly,
And a hundred men a minute
Roll their stouty eyes and die.

Let us stop this wild death's revel;
Martin Luther, so 'tis said,
Threw his inkstand at the devil
And the black fiend turned and fled

Smite your world-wrong dont combat it
With a fusilade of lead:
Simply throw your instant at it;
Come tomorrow, it is dead.

When the world upon the bring stands
Of some crisis steep and dread,
Like brave soldiers seize your inkstands,
Hurl them at the devil's head.

For the man who's born a fighter,
For the man that's learned to think
There is dynamite and nitre
In a bottle of black ink.

Though it makes no weeping nations,
And it leaves no gaping scars,
Placed 'neath error's strong foundations
It may blow them to stars.

—S. W. Foss

GREAT JOKE—The Harrodsburg Herald says: "The greatest joke of the twentieth century is that a lot of notables, including President Roosevelt, are to-day celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of Lincoln's birth by laying the corner stone of a memorial to the great emancipator and martyred president at what they believed to be the spot where he was born in Larue county, when, in fact, all the substantial proof goes to show that he was born in Washington county, and was taken by his parents to Larue county when quite a lad. We believe that a commission of Louisville business men, after a thorough investigation of the records a few years ago, gave it as their opinion that Washington county was the birth place of Lincoln beyond a doubt. It is right to build a memorial to Lincoln, but generations yet unborn should not in this way be misled as to the true spot of his nativity."

INACCURACIES—It is astonishing to note the stupid blunders and inaccuracies in the Lincoln "history" so called which has appeared in the various newspapers during the past few weeks preceding the celebration over at Hodgenville. Some of the writers fire away and write very glibly of Lincolns birth place and of the marriage of his father and mother when the facts show that they are distressingly ignorant of the real facts in the case. An amusing incident occurrid in a publication in the Times last week. There appeared a large cut of the "Lincoln cabin." The picture was supposed to be that of the Larue county home but it was a reproduction of the cabin near Beechland in which Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks were married and in which, so the proof goes, the great emancipator was born. In this case the truth, though inadvertently, came to light.

RAISED THE VALUE—The Board of Tax Supervisors or Washington county are certainly alive to the value of Washington county property, more so even than the owners if one is to judge by the "raisers" made in the valuation by the board. The total increase in the valuation as fixed by the supervisors is $168,400 of which $88,700 was on farming lands, $10,000 on lots, $64,530 notes cash etc and $4,280 on personality. The assessed valuation of Washington county property is now $4,039,245. The increase in the valuation of farm lands is undoubtedly due to the production of tobacco and the high prices which have obtained for the weed this year. There are farms in this county which can be bought for $50 an acre and which are assessed for a great deal less that have produced as high as $800 per acre in tobacco at that rate a tobacco farm should receive a high valuation. Indeed a number of good tobacco growers who were for merly renters have recently bought farms of good size and have succeeded in paying for them with the proceeds of their crops during the past year or two.

The Secret of Long Life

A French scientist has discovered one secret of long life. His method deals with the blood. But long ago millions of Americans had proved Electric Bitters prolongs life and makes it worth living. It purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood, rebuilds wasted nerve cells, imparts life and tone to the entire system. Its a godsend to weak, sick and debilitated people. "Kidney trouble had blighted my life for months" writes W. M. Sherman, of Cushing, Me., "but Electric Bitters cured me entirely." Only 50c at Haydon & Robertson.

Washington County Man.

Last Monday afternoon two men, whose names we were unable to learn, but both as full as a goat, drove out the Mackville pike. Near the bridge, one of the men fell out of the buggy in which toey were riding, cutting a deep gash in his head. A resident of the neighborhood happening along and seeing their trouble dressed and bandaged the man's wounds and assisted him into his buggy, and the fellows returned the civility with which this good Samaritan tendered them by giving hsh to their horse and driving away firing their pistols at every jump. Officers pursued them as far as Salt river bridge and met a citizen coming towards town who told them that if the men were still going as fast as when he met them they were by that time, crossing the Mississippi, and the officers returned empty handed. As no body was able to learn the names of the men, it is believed they were Washington county men, who had been down into Anderson county to some distillery after "white pup" and were getting away with their supply before getting home.—Harrodsburg Herald.

Most cough cures are constioating, because they contain opiates, and you should be careful to take something that does not tend to constipate. You should take Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. It not only allays inflamation and irritation of throat and lungs, but it drives out the cold from the system by a free yet gentle action of the bowels. Children like the pleasant taste that is nearly like maple sugar Sold by the Red Cross drug store.

Slept With Mouth Open

Mr. George W. Glazebrooks, of the Penick neighborhood, reports that during the cold snap a few nights since, eight guinea fowls on his place were roosting in a tree. His son, Roy, one morning found them lying on the ground under the roosting place, a coat of ice having formed, incasing completely their heads. The three that still showed signs of life were taken into the house and the ice thawed, and from the open mouth of each was taken a plug of ice about an inch long and as large around as a lead pencil. The three guineas are still living and so far as can be noticed are no worse off for the freezing.—Lebanon Falcon.

This is just the time of the year when you are most likely to have kidney or bladder trouble, with rheumatism and rheumatic pains caused by weak kidneys. Delays are dangerous. Get DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills, and be sure you get what you ask for. They are the best pills made for backache, weak back, urinary disorders, etc. They are antiseptic and act promptly. We sell and recommend them at the Red Cross drug store.

A Good Roads Object Lesson

One effect of the Hodgenville pilgrimage should be to make an army of converts to the good roads movement. Any man who who bumped over the alleged highway to the Lincoln Farm, and remains obdurate to appeals for his support in the cause of road improvement, is a hopeless case.

Of course, the future will see a great change wrought in the condition of this road. It is part of the plan to turn it into a boulevard, on which future Lincoln pilgrims will make their journey to the patriot's shrine without the trouble and inconvenience that attended the ceremonies of Friday. But the present sequence of ruts and mudholes is typical of many a road throughout the State that will have no such incentive for improvement as that which operates in favor of the Lincoln highway.

For these roads the impulse to betterment must come from the spirit of civilization and progress which recognizes the importance of facilitating between various sections of the Commonwealth. Roads are among the earliest symbols of social advance. The path to the spring in the pioneer settlement is continued to the neighboring cabin; later it becomes a wagon track, as the clearing proceeds. So it grows, rough and uncertain at first; often winding and irregular, but always improving as the possibilities of intercourse grow, and the demands of trade become more exigent.

To judge, however, from the primitive condition of some roads that remain in Kentucky, social progress has been slow and community interest backward But we are learning our lesson; we are reaching the conclusion that along with better schools and other necessary things must go better roads, and the experience of Hodgenville ought to give some impetus to the movement in this direction.—Louisville Herald.

More Birthplaces.

The people of Washington county have let their opportunity pass and the place near Hodgenville will be known as his birth-place. The martyred President is well supplied with birth places. Years ago the old Rapier farm, four miles south of here was considered it. During the war, so prevalent was the belief that the U. S. soldiers carried away all of the building they could as souvenirs. It was of this building, Lincoln said "the only home in Kentucky I ever knew was on Knob Creek." The rock chimney and foundation are used for the same purpose today.—New Haven Echo

BURLEY GROWERS IN BATH COUNTY.

The Burley Tobacco Society n Bath county, Ky., is preparing to begin an active campaign to secure pledges from farmers to pool their 1909 crop of tobacco.

A larger crop will be raised in that section this year than ever before. Every available spot will be used to grow the weed. Much plowing has been done, and some in virgin soil which is expected to raise a very fine crop. Tobacco land is in great demand.

A great many new barns have been erected that section, and yet it is feared that there will not be barn room for such a large tobacco acreage. Some plant beds are being prepared and the seed will be sown as soon as the weather is suitable.—Farmers Home Journal.

FOR A GRADED SCHOOL

The city council held a special meeting Tuesday evening for the purpose of further considering the "Graded School question," continued from the last regular meeting of the council and mentioned in the last issue of THE ENTERPRISE. All members of the council excepting Mr. A Kelly were present.

The committee composed of Councilman George A. Burks and Mr. Lee A. Scearce, delegated to go before the County Board of Education for the purpose of asking that body to commit itself to a larger sum than one fourth for the erection of a school building, reported that the County Board of Education remained firm in its decision and would not yield from the terms as submitted at the regular meeting.

The county Board's proposition is that the county will join the city of Lebanon in building a Graded School building within the city limits of Lebanon and share one fourth the costs of the building and site and to pay one fourth the operating expenses of the school, provided the county be given an equal representation in every particular.

No vote was taken but it is thought the council at its next special meeting will accept the county board's proposition.

On motion of councilman Edmonds a resolution was passed directing an ordinance be drafted by the city attorney covering the question in full and that the city council meet in special session this Friday evening, February 12, 1909, for final action.

The question of selling the site and present public school building in New Lebanon and devoting the proceeds to the purchase of a larger and more suitable site was discussed by different ones at this meeting but the council took no part in this phase of the situation.—Lebanon Enterprise

Why He Didn't Rise.

It was married men's night at the revival meeting. "Let all you husbands who have troubles on your minds stand up!" shouted the emotional preacher at the height of his spasm. Instantly every man in the church rose to his feet except one.

"Ahal" exclaimed the preacher, peering out at this lone sitter, who occupied a chair near the door and apart from the others. "You are the one in a million."

"It ain't that," piped back this one helpless as the rest of the congregation turned to gaze suspiciously at him. "I can't get up. I'm paralyzed!"

Although there are large forests in Brazil, trees suitable for lumbering are seldom located close enough together for profitable work. For this and other reasons it is held that the importation of North American lumber, even in the face of the duty of $27 per 1,000 feet, is almost unavoidable indefinitely in the future.

In order that men of the Forty-second French infantry regiment may become proficient in the art of cookery, the commander of the regiment, Colonel Dufour, has made arrangements with twelve of the leading restaurants at Belfort for a number of his soldiers to attend the kitchens every day to receive instructions.

Robert Bacon, assistant secretary of state; General Henry C. Corbin, U. S. A., retired, and Charles A. Clowry, president of the Riggs National bank, and other prominent men of Washington are behind a movement that has for its purpose the construction of a bridge to that city, which will probably be known as the National Auditorium.

Western Ireland was recently excited over a particularly clear mirage seen near Ballyconnelly, a town on the wild Connemara coast. The spectacle of a beautifully situated small town, with buildings of different sizes and varying styles of architecture, was seen rising out of the sea apparently about six or seven miles westward. Hundreds gathered to witness the sight, which was visible from 3 until 6 p. m., when it gradually vanished.

One Faculty Strongly Developed in Many Insane Persons.

One of the most peculiar features of insanity is that occasionally one faculty, either sight, hearing, smell, taste or touch, is extraordinarily acute. Certain insane persons, insensible to every other impression, have a pronounced taste for music and can repeat with accuracy an air which they may have heard but once. Others have a recollection of form and color and display an aptitude for drawing, while more frequently one may meet with an inmate of an asylum who has a special memory for figures, dates, proper names and words generally.

There is a case on record, for instance, of an imbecile who at twenty-seven had such an extraordinary memory that he could solve the most difficult problems in arithmetic and algebra and repeat word for word long poems after once hearing them. In another case a boy of fourteen, with a defective brain, who had the greatest difficulty in learning to read, could, if allowed two or three minutes to run over a page printed in a foreign language or treating of questions of which he was ignorant, repeat the words from memory as correctly as if the book had been lying before him.

Very curious was the case of another man, a devout churchgoer, who could remember the day when every person had been buried in the parish for thirty-five years and could repeat, with unvarying accuracy, the name and age of the deceased and mourners at the funeral. And yet he was a complete fool, and outside of the line of burials he had not one idea and could not give an intelligent reply to a single question or even be trusted to feed himself.

At Earlswood asylum, England, they have records of imbeciles who could not only repeat accurately a page or more of any book which had been read years before, even though it was a book they did not understand in the least, but also of an insane person who could repeat backward what he had just read.

Another curious case is that of an imbecile who in the first place, never failed to go to church and who on reaching home could repeat the sermon word by word, saying, "Here the minister coughed; here he stopped to blow his nose," and so on.

In another case an imbecile knew the Bible so perfectly that if you asked him where such and such a verse was to be found he could tell without hesitation and repeat the chapter.

All these instances are well authenticated, and others equally amazing and true could be added. And just as there is one sense which is sometimes wonderfully acute in persons of weak intellect, so is the case of blind people the sense of smell or hearing is often very keen.

One of the most remarkable cases on record is that of Julia Brace, a female deaf and blind mute who could distinguish brothers and sisters by smell and who recognized anybody she had met before by the same means.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A Rhymed Task Master.

In the studio of an artist on Madison avenue there is a sign that would seem suited for almost any place where there is work to do. Of course it is exceptionally well adapted to the needs of dreaming artists. It reads:

Whene'er a task is put to you
Don't idly sit and view it
Nor be content and wish it done—
Begin at once and do it.

In this studio it was of course primarily printed and framed. Within view of the motto every one was hard at work, and the man who sat nearest said it never gave him a moment's rest. He could not look at an unfinished job without seeing or hearing the jingle of the rhyme.—New York Press.

LEBANON LOCALS

(From The Leader).

Mr. R. D. Thornbury left last Sunday for Lexington, having secured a position on the daily Herald of that city. Bob seems to be going some since his test of speed in reaching Washington with Kentucky's electoral vote. But, joking aside, it is a nice job Bob has secured, and his many friends here who wish him success believe he will hold it down successfully and still recognize his friends in the rural districts as they jog along trying to get out a "weekly." Mr. Thornbury's family will soon follow, and they will make their home in Lexington.

A thief broke in the grocery store of Mr. C. M. Crowdus Saturday night and secured about $9 worth of goods, consisting of tobacco, cigars, fruit and wearerwurst. He entered at the rear of the store by climbing a small tree to the second story window, forced an entrance and came down stairs to the main room. The thief was evidently a small boy, as the tree by which he got into the house was a small one. He had the nerve to sit down by the fire and devour a couple of oranges before he made good his escape.

At the public sale of stock, crop and implements of Mrs. Julia A. Smith, on Thursday of last week, sheep sold from $7.80 to $8.30; hogs $8 to $21; milch cows, $68 to $80; mules, $125 to $190; brood mares and geldings; $100 to $210; colts, $60 to $105, jennets, $340 to $355; young jacks, $450 to $580. About 650 persons were present, many of them being from other counties. Paul Thompson, who conducted the sale, says it was one of the most successful of any of the large number conducted by him recently. The aggregate of the sale amounted to $4,500.

Soldier Talks Death-Plot

It seemed to J. A. Stone, a civil war veteran, of Kemp, Tex., that a plot existed between a desparate lung trouble and the grave to cause his death. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which restored my health completely. I now weigh 176 pounds." Valley-Hill

Some time has elapsed since taking up my pen and wielding a letter to the dear old News-Leader and if any of the readers recognize my chat ering they will know that heretofore I have not represented the flourishing little down of Valley Hill. However as the eloquent "Uno" has quit flourishing his pen in that direction, having become so intoxicated with the "Sons" dazzling rays, I will make a grand endeavor to in some measure take his chair left vacant so long.

If my letters are ever by any means a trifle stale please do not censure me too very much for I am not a very frequent visitor nor am I so great on questioning people as to their affairs and I think these two things are largely necessary for an interesting newsy letter.

Evils of "Pistol Toting"

There is too much "pistol toting" and too much palliation of "pistol toting" all through the South. The mere possession of a deadly concealed weapon has a certain psychological effect upon the most conservative of temperaments. Upon even a strong character the "feel" of a pistol is likely to breed the desire to use the pistol.

In most human beings, with average advantages and average education, this desire to feel that one can kill if one chooses—this cheap love of the spectacular—passes away rather early in life; or is reserved for a more legitimate and recognized exercise on the side of lawand order, or in war-time, or in some dangerous calling. But the tough nature does not care whether it is exercised on the side of recognized authority or not; it is simply its exercise that such a nature desires. He wants to see himself in a heroic attitude

I have no doubt that many of the Night Riders went into the thing just because it gave them an opportunity to ride around the country at night, in a silly masquerade, with guns in their hands, and in their egotistic hearts that satisfying feeling that they belong to a band that runs things.

If the young men in the rural communities, and even in some of the larger towns throughout the South, cannot be convinced that habitually to carry a pistol—unless upon occasions where one is really needed—is a foolish thing to do, they can at least be convinced that it is an expensive habit. The laws against carrying concealed weapons are good enough; all that is needed is their general enforcement by the proper authorities.

Duelling has been frowned on in this country for several decades; but it would be better than such street killings as that of Carmack, in Nashville, or that of Gonzales, in Columbia, a few years ago. In a duel each participant at least has something like an equal chance; but when the "pistol toter" goes after his man it is not with the idea of giving him a chance for his life.

If men of influence and a certain degree of prominence, like the Coopers in Tennessee, and the Tillmans in South Carolina "vote" deadly weapons with which to settle their personal difficulties—if these men of a class who are supposed to have had certain educational advantages are "pistol toters," how then are the inhabitants of the Redfoot lake district, the hen-tucky and Tennessee and Georgia Mountaineers, and the youths of the narrow inland villages all throughout the South, who are lacking in opportunities and position, to be taught the lesson that "pistol toti g" is a vain, foolish, criminal and contemptible habit?—Don Marquis, in Uncle Remus's—The Home Magazine for February.

Died in Oklahoma

As was briefly announced in the News Leader last week Mrs. Margaret M. Browne wife of dr Stephen E. Browne, formerly of this county died on Wednesday, February 10, at Enid, Oklahoma where she had been pending the winterer. Mrs. Browne was a daughter of the late Mr Anselm and Elizabeth Devine Meyer and was born and reared in Boyle county. At an early age she married Mr. Stephen E. Browne, of Washington county, and their early married life was spent in this and Boyle counties. About twenty-five years ago they moved to Pleasant Hill, Mo., and have lived there and at Kansas City ever since. Mrs Browne was a frequent visitor to this county where she had many friends who greatly loved her for her cheerful disposition and many excellent qualities of character. She is survived by her husband, two sons and three daughters. Mrs Ardis Brown, of this place is a sister and Mr. E. H. Meyer, of Boyle county is a brother. The remains were buried at Pleasant Hill, Mo.

Death of Mrs. J. C. McElroy.

At 12 o'clock, noon, Tuesday death came peacefully to Mrs. Mayme Greene McElroy, wife of James C. McElroy, at their home on Main street.

For more than a year the fight against an insidious, malignant disease has been waged by Mrs. McElroy with optomistic hope and courage that were the admiration of everyone who knew of the heroic means that were used to stay the dread disease. First the surgeon's skill was resorted to, and after several months' treatment, she sought the advice of an eminent cancer specialist in Philadelphia where she remained under treatment three months, returning home in the early part of December, still bright and cheerful, to spend the Christmas holidays at home with her family and friends. It was then evident to those who were watching and noting every change in her condition that each day the fighting chance grew smaller.

With the same courage and fortitude that had been characteristic in using every means to combat the disease she realized that the fight had been in vain and that her days were numbered. With the calmness of one who was prepared to meet her God, she made all preparation for death, looking forward to the good and comfort of her child and husband when she no longer could cheer them with her presence.

If suffering be the crucible in which the soul is refined then her soul went into the presence of its Maker without dross or spot to mar its glittering brightness. In the many months of her invalidism Mrs. McElroy battled against succumbing to to disease, and her cheerfulness deceived even her nearest friends

As the shadows of death gathered around her couch, the spiritual light dawned brighter, and she passed "through the Valley of the shadow of death" to God who had been her comforter through great suffering and tribulation.

Mrs. McElroy was the third child of Mr. Sidney and Mrs. Kate Green, deceased, and was born and reared in this county. On September 25, 1889, she was united in marriage to James C. McElroy, who, with a son, James Calhoun, are left to mourn the loss of a devoted wife and mother.

The surviving sisters and brothers are Mrs. S. C. Moore, of Sherman, Texas, Mrs Roger Grandy, of Denison, Tex., Mrs. H. R. Thompson, Mr. Clifton A. Green, of Springfield, Dr. James Green, London, Ky., and William Green, of Sherman, Texas.

The funeral services were held at the residence on Main Street, Rev. R. E. C. Lawson, pastor of the Presbyterian church, who had been the spiritual adviser and comforter of Mrs. McElroy during her illness, conducted the services. The remains were interred in the Springfield cemetery.

Respectfully,

Shultz & Reidle.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Rutledge Wharton, Charles Robertson, N. P. Campbell, W. D. McElroy, Howard B. McElroy, Phil McChord, George Colvin and Robert Marks

E. B. Clarkson Dead

Mr. E. Barber Clarkson, one of the best known farmers in Washington county died at his home four miles north of Springfield on last Sunday evening after a short illness of pneumonia and heart trouble. The deceased was born in this county 58 years ago and was a son of the late Mr. Dora Clarkson, his mother being a Miss Edwards. In early life Mr. Clarkson married Miss Ella Taylor, who together with five daughters and three sons survive him. There was probably not a more honorable nor upright man in the county than Barber Clarkson. His word was as good as his bond and he never made an enemy and had a host of friends. He had been engaged in farming and stock raising all of his life. He reared a large family which was always well provided for. Besides his wife and children Mr. Clarkson is survived by a brother, Mr. Sidney Clarkson, of the county, and a sister, Mrs. T. P. O'Bryan of Springfield.

The deceased was a member of the Catholic church and his funeral took place at St. Rose Tuesday morning.

WASHINGTON LETTER

[Special Correspondence.]

The wheels of national legislation would go sadly awry if Washington awoke some fine morning to find that the men who have given years of their lives to aid the senators and representatives in their duties had been suddenly spirited away, for there are clerks of committees, employees of the senate and house, who have vast stores of knowledge regarding the proper course to be pursued with the legislative problems that present themselves to each congress and who are almost indispensable to the expeditious transaction of the public business. There are employees of this character at the capitol who have been in harness for twenty, thirty and even forty years.

Officers of the House.

The three officers of the house elected by the members at the beginning of each new congress are the clerk of the house, the sergeant at arms and the doorkeeper of the house. The present incumbents have been in office for years and are extremely likely to be re-elected when the Sixty-first congress assembles after March 4 in extra session. The offices of clerk of the house and sergeant at arms have almost invariably been given to former members of the house. The present clerk, Alexander McDowell, came to the capitol first as a representative from Pennsylvania, being elected to the Fifty-third congress on the Republican ticket. He was elected clerk of the house during the Fifty-fourth congress.

The Quorum Provider.

The sergeant at arms, Henry A. Casson, came here from Wisconsin. He was at one time chief clerk of the department of agriculture. This was in the day of Jeremiah Rusk, whose protege Casson was. The position of sergeant at arms of the house requires considerable tact, and Mr. Casson fills the bill to a "t." He has been called upon when members so far forgot themselves as to come to blows on the floor of the house, which they sometimes do there. Another job put upon the sergeant at arms is to bring in the members when there is a call of the house to vote upon a measure of importance. There are times when Mr. Casson is compelled to take members from entertainments, receptions and dinners. He has cruelly yanked them out of their beds unless they were too ill to come in order that a quorum of the house might be on hand.

Expert on Parliamentary Law.

The doorkeeper of the house is Frank B. Lyons. He came into his office about the same time as McDowell and Casson.

No man in the house occupies a more responsible position than Asher C. Hinds, the parliamentary clerk to the speaker. Mr. Hinds stands ever at the speaker's right hand and informs him on all questions relating to the rules of the house and to parliamentary law. Mr. Hinds is probably the best posted man on parliamentary law on this side of the Atlantic ocean. He came to Washington first as a newspaper man and had a place in the house press gallery. He hails from Maine, and Speaker Reed appointed him his clerk in 1890. He rapidly proved himself a wonderfully clever parliamentarian and has held the position ever since.

Learned in Naval Lore.

Pittman Pulsifer, clerk to the naval committee of the senate, is officially designated as Senator Hale's private secretary. There is no other layman in the country who knows as much about the United States navy, and, for that matter, the navies of the world, as Pittman Pulsifer. It has been one of his duties to complete the "Navy Year Book." This book has become an absolute authority upon naval matters in the senate and is highly regarded by the navy department. Mr. Pulsifer understands well the handling of big navy budgets, and his statements relating to the vessels and the personnel of the new navy are considered "scripture" when naval affairs are discussed.

Color All Right.

Some one brought Captain Pete Riley bid news the other day. Captain Pete is the chauffeur of the elevator that takes you up to the gallery floor of the senate—that is, if you happen to be a senator or a member of some other privileged class—or away down into the bowels of the earth, if you want to go. He has troubles of his own, has Captain Pete, and for that reason other people shouldn't go to him with theirs. But this man did. Says he to Pete: "My good friend Mike is dead. He passed away last night."

"And what was the matter with him?" says Pete.

"Faith, it was gangrene," says Pete's friend.

"Thank God for the color," says Pete.

Plan Monument to Allison.

A movement is on foot at the capitol to honor the memory of Senator William B. Allison of Iowa in an enduring fashion. A proposition will be made to congress to appropriate the necessary funds for a site and base for a monument to the late "father of the senate." The monument itself will be provided through private subscription.

Why Mr. Wilson Precedes.

Secretary of Commerce and Labor Oscar S. Straus, although one of the most prompt of the cabinet at all official gatherings at that body, is usually preceded by Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson, who drives to the White House through the White House grounds. Mr. Straus explained this notable event the other day when he met Secretary Wilson going in the White House door just ahead of him. "Mr. Wilson precedes me, as usual," he said, "and that is right, for without agriculture there would be no commerce."

CARL SCHOFIELD.

The Annoyed Golfer.

Sir Harry Johnston, the African explorer, praised in Washington the innumerable and superb American golf courses.

"I never saw anything like it," said he, "and I have but one fault to find—you permit too many persons to promenade your links as though they were public parks. That is very annoying and also very dangerous.

"These promenaders are often extremely ignorant of golf. It was here in Washington, I believe, that a player overheard two of them conversing.

"'What,' said a young lady promenader, 'is that man with the club shouting "Fore!" for?'

"Her companion, another young lady, answered:

"'I suppose that is the number of times he has missed the ball. And doesn't he seem annoyed about it too?'"

Lion Might Aid Gerard's Aim.

Ludovic Holevy was once a guest at a shooting party. He was much worried during the battue by the nervous, awkward manner in which his neighbor handled his gun. At the close of the day he went to his host and inquired:

"Who on earth was that fellow beside me?"

"Oh," was the answer, "don't you know? That was a fellow author, Jules Gerard, who wrote 'Lion Hunting.' Ah, he can shoot and write too."

"Delighted to meet him," replied the creator of "Abbe Constantin," holding up a hat riddled with shot. "The next time I hope he brings his lion with him. It may help him to shoot straighter."

of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites should always be kept in the house for the following reasons:

First—Because, if any member of the family has a hard cold, it will cure it.

Second—Because, if the children are delicate and sickly, it will make them strong and well.

Third—Because, if the father or mother is losing flesh and becoming thin and emaciated, it will build them up and give them flesh and strength.

Fourth—Because it is the standard remedy in all throat and lung affections.

No household should be without it.

Stomach Dsctress.

And all Misery from Indigestion Vanishes Five Minutes Later.

Every family here ought to keep some Diapepsin in the house, as any one of you may have an attact of Indigestion or Stomach trouble at any time, day or night.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour stomach five minutes afterdards.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of Indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50 cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take one triangule after supper to night. There will be no sour rising, no belching of undigesten food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous cders.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for all stomach misery, because it will take hold of your food and digest it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there

Actual, prompt relief for all your stomach misery is at your Pharmacist, waiting for you.

These large 50 cent cases contain more than sufficient to cure a case of Dypepsin or Indigestion.

Full Sets of False Teeth For Dogs.

News comes from London that many of the leading dentists there have established "parlors" for the treatment of dogs and that the patronage of the owners of show dogs has made the innovation a profitable one. A defective or decayed tooth may lose the prize to a dog otherwise perfect as to points, and it is now a common practice with fanciers to send their pets to the dentist as regularly as wise parents send their children. Single new teeth cost from $4 to $5 each, while as much as $135 is paid for a full set for a beloved old canine member of a household.—New York World.

Paderewski's Diet.

Prior to his appearance at a concert Paderewski would not thank one for a piece of the finest turkey or for the most toothsome pudding ever made. On a concert day he eats nothing until it is concluded except one soft boiled egg. When it is over he takes a hearty meal, which he enjoys thoroughly, as his appetite is excellent, although he is so abstemious. During a concert he drinks a soda lemonade made without sugar. It need hardly be said that this is not intended as a stimulant. After the concert he permits himself a draft of some malt beverage.—London Tit-Bits.

The Newest Gold Field.

Poseidon, the newest Australian gold field, is producing some remarkable nuggets. One shaped like a cricket ball was recently found there lying on the surface, the finder at first mistaking it for a mushroom. From the same place comes news of a nugget of 103 ounces closely resembling a nautilus shell, and on the adjoining claim a Scotchman impaled a thirty-eight ounce nugget on the point of his pick. A boy driving a baker's cart over the Poseidon field saw the gleam of gold in the grass. He got down and picked up a lump weighing four ounces.

Man's Modesty.

Oscar Hammerstein, being complimented in Philadelphia on the successful opening of his new opera house uptown, shook his head modestly.

"Did any one," he said, "ever succeed—really and perfectly succeed—to his own satisfaction? The older I grow the more I sympathize with Gounod.

"'As your talent progresses,' said Gounod to a young poet, 'your estimate of the master poets of the past will change as has my estimate of the master musicians.

"'At your age I used to say "I." At thirty I said "I and Mozart," at forty "Mozart and I." I say "Mozart" now.'"

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for much sickness and suffering, therefore, if kidney trouble is permitted to continue, serious results are most likely to follow. Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys most, because they do most and should have attention first. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. A trial will convince you of its great merit.

The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because its remarkable health restoring properties have been proven in thousands of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best.

Home of Swamp-Root.

Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

Lamy Is Star of Skaters.

With the opening of the skating season interest naturally centers in the steel blade artists who will vie for honors on the ice, and it is pleasing to hear that Edmund Lamy of Saranac Lake, N. Y., is moving faster than ever and will compete in all the big meets, ready to lead attacks on the best of standing records.

Great things are expected of the eighteen-year-old lad who was the sensation of 1908 and who is improving in rapid strides. Already a long string of championships and records hang at his belt, and if we may believe what the leading experts of the country are saying we will see him acclaimed the greatest skater the world has ever seen before he retires from competition.

Young Lamy is a native of Saranac Lake, N. Y., and celebrated his eighteenth birthday Jan. 18. At the early age of fourteen he could outdistance any of the crack racers around his home town, and in February, 1905, his father decided to enter him for the international junior championship, to be held in Montreal on the 24th of that month. How the stripling won the big event handily, clipping seventeen seconds off the junior world's record, is now history.

Footballer Wants to Fight.

Another aspirant for heavyweight pugilistic honors has appeared in the form of a college man, one who has played tackle on his varsity football team and who this year faced the Pennsylvania, Princeton, Annapolis, the Indian and West Point elevens on the gridiron. The would be champion is Thomas Edward Casey, and until recently he was a student at Villa Nova college.

Casey is the man who made the touchdown against Princeton last fall, but the play was disallowed after he had made an eighty yard run and outfooled Tibbott, the All American halfback, who chased him down the field. Casey is a magnificently developed man, nineteen years of age, stands six feet, weighs 195 pounds stripped, has a normal chest development of forty-one inches, forty-five inches expanded, and has a thirty-four inch waist. He lives in Bridgeport, Conn., and expresses a desire to meet John Wille or Kubiak.

Millionaires to Play Polo Abroad.

When the polo season opens English players will find an American team composed of members of the Meadowbrook club (New York) ready to meet them on their own ground. The Meadowbrook team has been practically invincible for two years and has beaten nearly every team of note on this side of the Atlantic. Three of the members—namely, Harry Payne Whitney, Lawrence Waterbury and J. M. Waterbury—apparently not satisfied with a monopoly of the American victories and sighing "for other worlds to conquer," will cross the ocean next season, carrying with them the good wishes of every polo enthusiast.

Chicago Americans Get Altizer.

Dave Altizer, the infielder, who did utility duty for the Washington and Cleveland baseball teams last season, was purchased by President Comiskey of the Chicago Americans recently. Altizer finished the season with the Naps and is rated as a first class all round player. His hitting is his best point, and his speed on the bases is good.

FOR THE CHILDREN

The Subway Game.

The subway game is fun at a party where there are older boys and girls, and it is easy to play. Prepare slips of paper with questions written on them—questions that would start a conversation, like "What is your favorite book?" "Do you want to vote?" "Where would you like to travel?" etc. Arrange the chairs in two lines by twos, leaving an aisle between the two rows, so that it is like a train, with double seats on each side of the aisle. Then the girls are told to enter and take the outside seats farthest from the aisle and the boys take the other seats. The questions are distributed, and the players are allowed three minutes' conversation on the subject mentioned on the paper. As usually happens in real subways, they have to leave in the middle of their talk, for the "conductor" informs them that time is up, and all the men move forward one place, while the girls hand their questions to the girls in back. Thus every one has a new partner and a new question at every change. This is a very good game for shy people who perhaps know how to talk very well if they can only begin. It is well to have the questions very varied, so that the frivolous, the learned, the travelers and the stay at homes may all have their turns.

Game of Farmyard.

If among your circle there is one person who makes himself extremely objectionable from his forwardness or bumptiousness, this is an excellent game for putting him in his right place.

The master of the ceremonies states that the present company must all imagine themselves to be the denizens of a farmyard. He says that he will whisper to each in turn the particular animal he wishes them to imitate. Then at a given signal—when he drops his handkerchief—they must all imitate together the noise of the animal they are supposed to be.

He then whispers to each in turn apparently the name of the animal they are to represent. In reality what he really whispers is, "Remain perfectly silent." When he comes to his real victim, however, he whispers, "The donkey; bray as loud as you can!"

The youth simpers and promises himself to attract general attention from the realism of his performance. The master of the ceremonies then cries out, "All ready; now then!" Every one remains perfectly silent except the bumptious youth, who covers himself with confusion and ridicule by the loudness of his solo.

Old Style Printing.

You all know, of course, that printers make the lines of type in newspapers and in books of equal length by means of metal "spaces" of varying degrees of thickness, says the Chicago News. This is what is technically called "justifying."

But you do not know, perhaps, that spaces were unknown in the early days of printing and that the printers were in the habit of shortening or lengthening words at pleasure to make the lines even.

An illustration of this arbitrary treatment of words may be found in an old black letter Bible, where the word "hot" is spelled "whot," "hote" and "hot," according to the space to be filled to even out the line. In the same book the words "we" and "ye" are spelled with a single "e," and a few lines lower on the page they are spelled "wee" and "yee." In another place the printer did not have room enough for the two words "shall be," and he made them "shalbe."

A Test of Culture.

Here is what a recognized authority says on the subject: "In spoken language pronunciation is the most striking element, and thus it happens that it is more than any other one thing the most obvious test of general culture. Even in a speaker of recognized ability his mispronunciations fall harshly upon the ear and cause the hearer to suspect that his early if not later education has been wanting in polish or that he has not been accustomed to the society of refined and cultivated people." Surely this writer does not overstate the case or exaggerate in any way the importance of correct pronunciation.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR

The Sagacious Author.

"I want a motor catalogue compiled for 1909," stated the manufacturer of automobiles. "I understand you do something in a literary way."

"Yes," admitted the author.

"What'll you charge for something artistic?"

"Fifty dollars."

"Give you thirty."

"I s'pose I'll have to take it. I need the money."

Six weeks elapsed.

"How about that catalogue?" demanded the manufacturer, meeting the author in the grill room of a fashionable hotel. "Expect me to wait a year for it?"

"Aw, say," laughed the author genially. "Sit down and have something. Waiter, take the gentleman's order. I want to tell you about the catalogue."

"Well, sir?"

"I had the thing neatly compiled and was about to deliver it when a great white light struck me. Instead of turning it over to you for a measly $30 I merely supplied it with dialogue and made a motor novel of it."

"How's that?"

"Made a motor novel of it, now in its two hundred and fiftieth thousand. Send your agent to see me about a touring car. Under the circumstances I feel that I ought to give your make the preference."—Will S. Adkins in Puck.

Why They Wanted George.

The young wife answered the phone.

"That's another call for George," she said to her mother. "Somebody wants him to come somewhere and play bridge. It's the third invitation he's had this evening."

"That would seem to indicate," said the mother, "that George is very popular."

The young wife sniffed.

"It unquestionably indicates," she said, "that George is an easy loser."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Nervous Prostration

"I suffered so with Nervous Prostration that I thought there was no use trying to get well. A friend recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine, and although skeptical at first, I soon found myself recovering, and am to-day well."

MRS. D. I. JONES,
5800 Broadway, Cleveland, O.

Much sickness is of nervous origin. It's the nerves that make the heart force the blood through the veins, the lungs take in oxygen, the stomach digest food, the liver secrete bile and the kidneys filter the blood. If any of these organs are weak, it is the fault of the nerves through which they get their strength. Dr. Miles' Nervine is a specific for the nerves. It soothes the irritation and assists in the generation of nerve force. Therefore you can hardly miss it if you take Dr. Miles' Neryine when sick. Get a bottle from your druggist. Take it all according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

Ha-San Rheumatic Remedy.

We want a letter from every man and woman in America afflicted with Rheumatism, Lumbago or Neuralgia, giving us their name and address, so we can send each one a Trial Treatment of our Rheumatic Remedy. We want to convince every rheumatic sufferer at our expense that our Rheumatic Remedy does what thousands of so-called remedies have failed to accomplish — actually cures Rheumatism. Polite Dogs.

A school for house dogs has been opened in Paris. The object of the school is to teach the dogs politeness. They are trained to welcome visitors by jumping up, wagging the tail and giving a low bark. When the visitor leaves the dog is taught to accompany him to the door, constantly wagging his tail and bowing his farewell by bending his head to the floor. He is also taught to pick up a handkerchief, glove or fan that has been dropped and return it to the owner.

Lizards' Tails.

Certain lizards are remarkable for the fragility of their tails. The diamond tailed gecko frequently owes its life to the ease with which its tail may be snapped off. This reptile, which will perch upon a rock, head downward, is liable to be preyed upon by hawks. One of these birds will swoop down upon a lizard and seize it by the tail. The brittle tail snaps off, and the reptile wiggles off and grows another.

An Afternoon Dress.

This bodice is an excellent one to wear with a separate skirt. China crape was used for the development. Irish lace made an effective yoke and collar. The waist is supported by a lining. The front and back are gathered to the square yoke. The sleeves are long and fall well over the hand. The skirt is made in three pieces, and darts are used in fitting it smoothly over the hips. The back is made in panel effect, and the tab extensions on the front give the skirt a pretty finish.

Scarabs In Fashion.

The dull green or brown mummified beetle worshiped by the Egyptians is in high favor as a jewel. It is worn as a pendant, as a little finger ring, as a collar pin and at the back of the hat to catch the veil.

The beetle is often surrounded with a delicately carved gold asp, with head and tail crossed at the top. Again, it is set in dull blue turquoise, the Egyptian stone, or mounted in a quoit setting.

There are thousands of ready made ones on the market, and they suit the purpose very well unless the fad is to last. Some women, however, have brought back beautiful antiques from Cairo and from Paris, which have been got through the French trade in Egypt.

Woolen Stuffs For Negligees.

Nun's veiling, albatross and other woolen stuffs of similar weight are well liked for simple negligees, wearing well, cleansing readily and even washing satisfactorily. They afford a little more warmth than silk or cotton, yet are not too heavy for well heated rooms and, being light in color, are extremely dainty and becoming.

Some pretty robes in pink, blue or lilac albatross have no trimming save hems of white satin featherstitching on the albatross, with color matching this material, or joined to the robe with openwork stitch of heavy white silk. These models are loose or semi-fitting and have the usual sleeves and tucks of india silk.

LEFT ON HER DOORSTEP FOR THIS MOTHER

Mrs. A. G. Tuson, of Livermore, Cal., writes: "I picked up from my doorstep one day a little book in which I soon became very much interested. My little girl of five years of age had been troubled for a long time with loss of appetite, extreme nervousness and undue fatigue. She was all rundown and in a very delicate condition.

"This little book was very comprehensively written, and told of the new method of extracting the medicinal elements of the cod's liver from the oil, eliminating the obnoxious oil which is so hard for children to take.

"'Just the thing,' said I, 'for my little daughter,' and I immediately went for a bottle of Vinol. It helped her wonderfully. She has gained rapidly in flesh and strength, and she does not take cold half so easily.

"I am extremely grateful for the good it has done her, and I hope other mothers who have weak, delicate or ailing children will be benefited by my experience and just give Vinol a trial."

Better Not Get Dyspepsia

If you can help it. Kodol prevents Dyspepsia, by effectually helping Nature to Relieve Indigestion. But don't trifle with Indigestion.

A great many people who have trifled with indigestion, have been sorry for it—when nervous or chronic dyspepsia resulted, and they have not been able to cure it.

Use Kodol and prevent having Dyspepsia.

Everyone is subject to indigestion. Stomach derangement follows stomach abuse, just as naturally and just as surely as a sound and healthy stomach results upon the taking of Kodol.

When you experience sourness of stomach, belching of gas and nauseating fluid, bloated sensation, gnawing pain in the pit of the stomach, heart burn (so-called), diarrhoea, headaches, dullness or chronic tired feeling—you need Kodol. And then, the quicker you take Kodol—the better. Eat what you want, let Kodol digest it.

Ordinary pepsin "dyspepsia tablets," physics, etc., are not likely to be of much benefit to you, in digestive ailments. Pepsin is only a partial digester—and physics are not digesters at all.

Kodol is a perfect digester. If you could see Kodol digesting every particle of food, of all kinds, in the glass test-tubes in our laboratories, you would know this just as well as we do.

Nature and Kodol will always cure a sick stomach—but in order to be cured, the stomach must rest. That is what Kodol does—rests the stomach, while the stomach gets well. Just as simple as A, B, C.
